meet, and in that way he was barred from the pleasure of participating with the other artists.

Years ago I heard a story about Senator Chilton's fiddling. A long way from Charleston, on Elk River, there lived an old mountaineer who had a recollection of the keen pleasure he had experienced from hearing the Senator play. He looked for ward to hearing him again, but the slow years slipped by so fast, that his feet were standing on the brink. But when he heard that the Senator was coming into his county, and he gathered his clan about him and told them that he wanted to hear the Senator play the fiddle once more before he died. His people understood and the Senator was communicated with and accepted the invitation to play. But when he tried to go to the old man's house, Elk river was in flood. There was no boat, and no bridge, and no way to get over. Then the Senator came down to the edge of the river on one side and the old man was brought to the other side, and there across the find amon the mou countena great dr an all ni

T. S. 1

McN

Fire Aut Bon

RI

Tow on,y Cour

S TIMES

e at Marlin class matter

EDITOR.

8, 1926

ng up the e following hical error he passage ject of the by the legteacher in nistorian."

sitting in Hotel in of a band ners. The and east rrents of and rewill keep ve I will Contest lt. Anyt nobody out in ie, some swelling stream, the fiddle told the naked stars the joy and grief of man

I heard a lot of music the other evening at the armory but it was more or less by fits and starts. I had not heard so much that I could not sleep, and so I left before the square dances began but they tell me that there was some danging before the the night was over. I always thought that I would like to dance if it was permitted, especially with girls. seems to be a game in which girls add considerable zest and interest. I do not know to this day whether I ever could dance or not. I drifted through some mysterious motions in the square dances of the old days, to the magic of the fiddle. Some captain of the game would call the fig ures, that is, give the command There was one peculiar form where the dancers faced away from each other, when the captain barked out, "Do si do!" That sentence always bothered me. I wondered what it meant in the original of whatever language it came from. And after many years I got an inkling of it in back to stud poker poker language. The of Spanish birth and for fid breeding announced that he had to near a be no This g A pla of the were ! backs. fully, ment jugs t would time (seams parties city, carry ought jug of Tha carried were look. standin get a along eating felt lik yearn a day

Here

gentleman of Spanish birth and 7 He Here ed out in for breeding announced that he had to one, some near a go on: "Aces, do si do." It seems music k that his first card dealt turned down in the ar-It stan building ace and his next card was was an larger i another ace turned up. Thus he good sized to the had his aces "back to back," the galleries That W with huhighest possible hand to go with. not pac Now if that is not what do si do whimcome ard time means, find out for yourselves. weight in that Fiddling was not only a question of with t e sprainskill but endurance. A fiddler added auger, ne tune. greatly to the joys of the young perknife, by the sons, but the amusement was not the na hungry only frowned upon by the great maj The er of the ority of the best and most powerful the C he tune persons, but absolutely forbidden the mense the fidchildren. Thou shalt not dance, was But it uld not an added commandment. The way ear th m the it worked as a rule was that it was ity ov e Again thoughly impressed upon the child out w use. I say of five or six years of age. He of Bit as very must never dance. That and the al-Italy, intro ternative of hell-fire took strong hold the ne . Afupon his imagination, and he pursubeen reputa ed the noiseless tenor of his way, un times themes til he became hazy with youth. Then I can times. he would fall and trip the light fan e Pod Stradi tastic toe and find great sport in famille dodging the lightning that was supme on could posed to strike him down for his dis on the sell at obedience. Then he would marry draw. better. some fine, mountain girl, and when the

fid

n from the it worked as a rule was that it was thoughly impressed upon the child iss Me Again say of five or six years of age. ir House. He must never dance. That and the alho was very d to intro ternative of hell-fire took strong hold apper. Afupon his imagination, and he pursuhad been ed the noiseless tenor of his way, un er of times til he became hazy with youth. Then hn. I can he would fall and trip the light fan like Pod tastic toe and find great sport in dodging the lightning that was come on posed to strike him down for his disite on the obedience. Then he would marry and draw some fine, mountain girl, and when g strings they had children, they would tell entiment, them about the time they were five the ears and six years old that under no cirem whocumstances must they ever dance noment's Under this good old plan the mounthe intains raised the best men and woled, and men the world ever saw, and it is to d. The be hoped that there is enough of the o well. iron left in the present hectic generple that ation to save us after the days of this at could cataclysm have passed, and reason a great has resumed her away. in the Sinful as it may be, wicked and is the worldly, and sad beyond conception, post of it is only honest to say that I wished the other day that I could meet with to ena couple of dozen other youngsters on nd the tend the a smooth floor, with one of those old of the fidelers present, and once more try to Fid. shake a foot to the romantic pleading of a fiddle. But the kids would not stand for it. Grandna must behave

o state ity over out with of Bitter Italy, th the neigh reputation themes 1 times. Stradiva families, could m sell at a better. three hu Fiddle in the a went to carrying a taxical forgot l loss and Cremona twenty this to b paper. ed fiddl over, t covered been pu old time

I can where or to peop poles.

nt could cataclysm have passed, and reason this to paper. a great has resumed her away. ed fid Sinful as it may be, wicked and in the over, worldly, and sad beyond conception, is the covere it is only honest to say that I wished nost of been the other day that I could meet with old ti to ena couple of dozen other youngsters on tend t d the a smooth floor, with one of those old Ic of the fiddlers present, and once more try to where Fidshake a foot to the romantic pleadings to pe wentyof a fiddle. But the kids would not poles. e state stand for it. Grandpa must behave. the 1 ed all I am sure the fiddler would have en-With ounty. joyed it more for there in that great boys a st imroom he was like a lamb in a large found Sourplace. It took more than a fiddle pressi eptastring to fill that aching void. stran n, in-The perpetual motion of a good them, es as bow arm in the old days, was one of dersto hour the long distance tests. Along about The repthe sixth hour of the dance, the fid-While Was dler would take time out for refreshhad a ments. This was about two o'clock seems reat in the morning, and the shank of the once who evening. At this time he would procastle bably get a sureptitious drink or two, from and the bucks would make him up went was ! his purse. Being thus refreshed, entunes couraged, and strengthened he was that Irons able to furnish music for the dance he w until breakfast. Music consisted of laddle ould ndered Sourplace. It took more than a nddle! pressi string to fill that aching void. hly acceptastran The perpetual motion of a good them Sutton, inbow arm in the old days, was one of derst activities as the long distance tests. Along about he Idlehour The the sixth hour of the dance, the fid-Whi om his repdler would take time out for refreshhad which was This was about two o'clock ments. seen in the morning, and the shank of the once great as a evening. At this time he would promen who cast bably get a sureptitious drink or two, fron ic. and the bucks would make him up Was bow went his purse. Being thus refreshed, entun couraged, aud strengthened he was Iron road that able to furnish music for the dance he until breakfast. Music consisted of fidd ed would one fiddler. More would have been a F superfluity. And there is no question ning. hard that the fiddle music is the afflinity ians lers has of dancing. That king of instrum. stop to rouse ents. the piano, be it played ever so peop the old cunningly, could not furnish the to co the wilwild abandon to a mountain dance. I form fiddlers. can remember occasions when A the forfiddler was absent, that the piano was been o intersubstituted, and it was like church that ves, the music and the danced bogged down Was ripple of and quit. But let the fiddle speak It v music. and bright eyed beauties respond. Was master-There is something haunting and Whi h," we compelling about it. No wonder that for I ecord of the pulpit thundered against the into tr ete even sidious temptations of the devil's the fidown instrument the fiddle, and the rive anthing that the fiddle music is the aminity ians gua ng. of dancing. That king of instrum. stopped ! rs has ents. the piano, be it played ever so people. rouse cunningly, could not furnish the to conqu he old wild abandon to a mountain dance. I formatio ie wilcan remember occasions when the At th dlers. fiddler was absent, that the piano was been ra e forsubstituted, and it was like church that ev ntermusic and the danced bogged down was sin , the and quit. But let the fiddle speak It was ple of and bright eyed beauties respond. was a s usic. There is something haunting and While i stercompelling about it. No wonder that , we for plea rd of the pulpit thundered against the into trav devil's even sidious temptations of the river t fidown instrument the fiddle, and the for a to ing. innocent young lads and lassies hardguest a rest, ly knew what to do, with the fiddle toshav ventugging at their heart strings, and that w of of duty opposing its dreadful influence. everyth of "By the path the younger son must except his tread, classed erly Ere he win to hearth and saddle of ımhis own, ip-Mid the riot of the shearers in the ok, shed, ick Fir In the silence of his quiet camp in alone. ord In the evening, on a bucket, upside ful down, I whisper what the bravest won't !! D-

duty opposing its dreadful influence. GAGIZO of "By the path the younger son must except classed tread, erly Ere he win to hearth and saddle of his own. rip- Mid the riot of the shearers in the ok, shed, In the silence of his quiet camp alone. In the evening, on a bucket, upside down, I whisper what the bravest won't confess, I am Music, I am Torment, I am Town, I am all that ever went with Evening Dress." It was very hard in the old days to find among the staid householders of the mountains, homes that would countenance the dance. One of the great drawbacks was that it meant an all night affair, and there would

ARTT

r of his um-

ck.

in

rd

ul

ne

-

T. S. McNeel F. F. McLaughlin of man ne other it was I had uld not square e that e the ought it was s. It girls erest. her I rifted ns in vs, to cape fig and

each out,

told the be no sleep for anyone in the house. thes This gave rise to the platform dance. laws A plank floor was laid in the shade ing. of the trees and there the dances trol were held, but that had its draw isla backs. Chaperone it ever so careinit fully, there remained an outlaw ele ment who would insist on bringing jugs to the picnic, and the surgeon would say it in stitches. The old time doctor sewed some of the finest seams you ever saw as a result of parties of this kind. They say in the city, that certain lawless youths carry something on the hip. Tney ought to have seen the full bellied jug of the old days.

pog

and

chi

to wi

for us

Ch

bi

T

ch

W

pa

ah

pu

bs

te

ot

au

be

That fiddle music the other night carried me back. The boys and girls were taking it with a rather bored look. But I could see old fellows here standing on tip-toes and trying to get a fill of the music, and getting along about as well as if they were ways eating thin soup with a splinter. I t it felt like saying to the old boys to ever yearn no more, for a tender grace of fter a day that is dead, will never come t in back to us e ng | were taking it with a rather bored pass look. But I could see old fellows able standing on tip-toes and trying to pun here get a fill of the music, and getting each have along about as well as if they were ter out, vavs eating thin soup with a splinter. I othe t it felt like saying to the old boys to D ver yearn no more, for a tender grace of and fter a day that is dead, will never come be 1 in back to us. The Here is one solution of the craze Lor nd for fiddle music. For something ano to near a hundred years it was the only Fid ms music known on the Western Waters. clos wn It stands to reason that none of the the as larger instruments could be imported fide he to the log houses of the wilderness. dan he That was to come later. They could ed h. not pack them in. The fiddle could esp 0 come in adding only a few ounces weight, and if one was not brought Was of with the frying pan, the axe, and the for d auger, and the rifle gun, and the scre - knife, then one could be made out of t the native woods without trouble. the There has been much said about the II. the Cremona violins, and the imkno 8 mense price that they bring today. But it takes a more divert weight, and if one was not brought The do H BBW of with the frying pan, the axe, and the for th auger, and the rifle gun, and the scratch bs knife, then one could be made out of It the native woods without trouble. rthese ot There has been much said about the N j the Cremona violins, and the imknow 1] mense price that they bring today. are e ! But it takes a more discriminating sure 2 ear than mine to sense their superiorthou 3 ity over the ancient fiddle whittled horn out with a pocket knife on the head T of Bitter Creek. At Cremona in 9 and Italy, the fiddles made by some of their the neighbors have attained a great tion reputation, and they are favorite best themes for song and story in modern G times. At Cremona, the Amati, men Stradivari, Guarneri, and Ruggieri chui families, all fine old Italian hands, reca could make good fiddles, and they And sell at a fortune now. The older the netter. They have been at it over disp three hundred years. of th Fiddler Melliwaine, of Erbacon, mus in the adjoining country of Warn pursuthemes for sing and story in modern Gradu times. At Cremona, the Amati, ments . vay, un Stradivari. Guarneri, and Ruggieri . Then church samilies, all tine old Italian hands, nt fan recall h port in could make good fiddles, and they And th s sup sell at a forcume now. The older the dispense is dis netter. They have been at it over of the marry music. three hundred jears. when Fiddler Melliwaine, of Erbacon, Ther d tell in the adjaining county of Webster, yields t re five went to the contest the other day draws o cirduty p carrying his precious tiddle. He took lance The a taxicab. Got out of the cab and noun. wodance forgot his tiddle He discovered his is to loss and was wild about it. It was a the co the Cremona. A Stradivarius, worth tremb enertwenty thousand dollars. I know this this to be true for I saw it in the ason paper. He had to play on a borrowed fiddle. After the big show was over, the priceless ilddle was discovered in a pawnshop, where it had been put up for fifty cents by some old timer crazy to get money to attend the fiddler's concert. I can remember plenty of cases whiere organs and pianos were carried to people's houses slung on great poles. There is no question about the universal longing for music. With a great monutain people the

and

ion.

shed

vith

on old

y to

ing;

not ave.

en

sters on ose old etry to leading; ould not behave ent great a large fiddle good one of about e fidfreshclock

f the pro
two,

m up

was ance of of en a tion nity um

50

the old timer crazy to get money to attend the filder's concert.

I can remember plenty of cases where organs and pianos were carried to people's houses slung on great poles. There is no question about the universa! longing for music With a great mountain people, the boys and girs born in the mountains, found in the fiddle the highest ex. pression of melody and it had a strange and fascinating effect upon them, which was thoroughly well understood by their spiritual advisers, The Solich intellect controlled. While it is said that Oliver Cromwell had a madier, on investigation, it seems that the facts are these. That once when Oliver Cromwell was at a castle, that in a hidden apartment from which no sound could issue, was a noble fugitive who played tunes on a fiddle unbeknownst to old Ironsides, and after the restoration, he went by the name of Oliver's fiddler.

For more than a hundred years the hardwood forests of the Appalachians guarded by a savage race had stopped the advance of the Christian people. It remained for the Scotch to conquer it and to bring about the

District

Pratanteed
Longs
freely
job.

by ha

Will

to ha Le comp

To (
and
mus

T. D.

reshed, end he was the dance isisted of ve been a question afflinity instrum. ever so ish the lance. I en the church speak

and 26.

ust

of

ke him up was a noble fugitive who played tunes on a fiddle unbeknownst to old Ironsides, and after the restoration, he went by the name of Oliver's tiddler.

For more than a hundred years the hardwood forests of the Appalachians guarded by a savage race had stopped the advance of the Christian people. It remained for the Scotch to conquer it and to bring about the formation of a republic.

At that time these immigrants had ano was been raised in a faith that taught that everything that was pleasant down was sintul. It was wrong to laugh. It was wrong to write poetry. It spond. was a sin to visit a friend on Sunday. and While it was right to bathe, to swim r that for pleasure was sinful. It was a sin e in- to travel on Sunday, even to cross a evil's river that was rising. It was a sin the for a tavern keeper to entertain as a ard guest a Roman Catholic. It was a sin to shave on Sunday. The list of things that were prohibited includes almost everything that is encouraged now, except possibly that whiskey classed as a food at that time. And these laws though not the secular ise. laws of the land were far more bindce. de ing. The Church took over the con ses trol of the country. Organized legw islative bodies, later to furnish the initiative in America for the most ·epowerful of all nations. The Church, e 1 and I speak of the Presbyterian church, had power of imprisonment, to impose fines, to whip, or to brand with a hot iron. Doing penance before the congregation was one of the usual ways of getting right with the Church.

g

n

d

t

f

9

To even listen to music was prohibited, much less to make music. There could be no music in the churches, and not even at weddings was it permitted. A special act was passed making it an offense punishable with a fine and such further punishment as the session saw fit to have music at weddings. See register of the Presbytery of Glasgow and other records.

Dancing was especially prohibited re ter of the Presbytery of Glasgow and I other records Dancing was especially prohibited and condemned and singers were to e be put in prison.

At the same time down about London way, for instance, there was another set that was headed towards Fiddler's Green, a particular enclosure of the Elysian fields, where there is to be perpetual mirth, a fiddle that never ceases to untiring dancers, plenty of grog, and unlimited tobacco. This section assigned especially to sailors.

The only fiddle known in Scotland was the Caledonian Cremona, a name for the itch, so called from the scratching movement evoked.

It was in the plan of life that these two elements were to meet in the New World, and to form a race known as the American, to which we are all proud to belong. We are surely the children of immigrants, though now that the word is ab-these two in the plan of life that these two to the plan of the meet in the New elements were to meet in known world, and to form a race odsy, are all as the American, to which we oday, are all broud to belong. We are rior- though the children of immigrants, rior- though now that the word is abtiled horred. nead Then came the fiddle and desire in and duty conflicted, but both played of their parts. It resulted in a civilizareat tion that with all its faults is the rite best that the world has yet seen. ern Gradually the instrumental instruati, ments found their way into the ieri church building, though I do not ds, recall having seen a fiddle in church. ney And the new fangled dances have the dispensed with the fiddle. The hope ver of the land hug each other to fixed music. n. There is a subconsciousness that er, yields to the sinful fiddle, and that ay draws us to its wicked strains, while ok duty points the other way. nd The other day in Charleston, the dance had no particular effect upon N as a mountity other than a elight ments the world has yet seen, mental instruments found their way into the church bound their way have recall houlding, though I do not fiddle in church. And the ving seen a fiddle in church. And the log seen a mudic in dispense new fangled dances have dispensed new langled du The hope of the land hug each other to fixed

There is a subconsciousness that yields to the sinful fiddle, and that draws us to its wicked strains, while duty points the other way.

The other day in Charleston, the dance had no particular effect upon the community, other than a slight trembling of the earth.

M Th

sei Ma

Pr

an